Our international client is looking to fill the following position immediately:

Strategic Purchasing Manager (m/f) - International timber industry -

The ideal candidate will have several years of experience in purchasing/sourcing in the (timber-)processing sector. You will analyse global sourcing markets and develop suitable commodity group strategies. In addition you will be responsible for managing our supplier portfolio, price negotiations, the conclusion of framework contract and the timeliness and quality of deliveries. Upon completion of the training period you will be in charge of all strategic and technical procurement activities for this client.

Your responsibilities:

- Responsibility & control of all strategic and operational procurement activities by means of continuous supplier evaluation
- Disposition & sourcing of raw material (excluding timber), consumable materials and other goods to be purchased according to company needs
- Procurement controlling - statistics, price analyses and control of delivery times
- Identifying and analysing global procurement markets
- Taking into account economic, logistic and quality-related criteria
- Professional implementation of tenders, further price and contractual negotiations and conclusion of framework contracts
- Continuous development and documentation of sourcing processes and systems
- Ensuring availability of material and quality standards
- Ongoing optimisation of the inventory

Your professional profile:

- Several years of experience and excellent knowledge of strategic and/or technical procurement of products & components within a producing business (ideally timber, furniture or similar)
- Business degree and/or a technical subject or a similar educational background
- Strong communication skills as well as excellent knowledge of German and English, written & spoken
- Comfortable with ERP-systems

Your profile:

- Technical affinity
- Strong negotiation skills
- Willing to travel and living internationally
- Highly proactive, conscious of quality and responsibility
- Understanding of business processes and flexible approach to working hours

You will mostly be working at international production site - coupled with travel to an extent common for this type of work. From day one we will offer you an attractive salary and a management position in a highly diversified business. In addition our highly motivated management team, to which you will be reporting, guarantees a secure and tension-free working environment. You will have a company car and flat at your disposal so as to allow you to do your job.
